I just closed it, so it should be unlocked now I think.

Carl,

I had the same thing happen to me once. Jacob had somehow accidentally locked it without knowing how. You can ask him to unlock it. He's also cc'd on this email, so I think he'll figure it out.

To your second question, yes, that works great.

Hi Dustin --

I just reviewed the RVB submission and found it to be complete. Two issues:

- I tried to edit "Master PQC submission list.xlsx", and it said, "Someone else has this workbook locked." (I also tried both browser-editing and Excel.) So I haven't been able yet to update that file yet.
- Do you have a preference about how we record our comments? What I did with RVB was to create a new file in the RVB directory entitled "PQC Submission Checklist_RV_cm_updated".

Talk to you later!

Hi Dustin –

Sounds good. I'll make time to look over all of my assigned submissions before Dec. 15th, and we can consult if there are any that are borderline or confusing. It's cool to see the start of this new stage!

Everyone,

We received over 80 submissions. The exact number might be a little in flux, as some submissions might end up being classified as two submissions, or two submissions may end up being treated as one. Wow - it's a lot! They are all up on the sharepoint site, or will be very soon. Jacob has been very fast at uploading them.

I've assigned most of the submissions to be reviewed, so your assignments are there. Look for the Master PQC Submission List in the Documents folder, just as before. There are a few more to assign, and I will do that later. I'm leaving today, and will be out of the office all of next week. I will be accessible via email.

Please start reviewing immediately, and marking your progress by putting your name in red on the finished ones, just as before. We have a lot of submissions, and so lots of reviews.

Remember, our goal is to have them all done by Friday, Dec. 15th. Let me know if you will have any problems. Thanks!

Dustin
